LUCAS LETTER OPENS HOOVER DRIVE FOR 1932

G. O. P. Executive Head Calls on Party Workers for Campaign.

PRAISES HOOVER RECORD

Says Panic Prevented Despite Depression; Democratic Activities Hit.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14—A letter from Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee, to Republican precinct leaders of the nation, launching President Hoover's campaign for reelection in 1932, was published by the New York World today.

In the letter, dated Dec. 21, 1930, Mr. Lucas appeals to party aides to "defend the President," and join the national committee in conducting "an aggressive, active, determined campaign from this day until the polls close in 1932."

Reviews Achievements

"President Hoover, experienced in ways of business and expert in handling big things, in spite of the worldwide depression and unemployment, has sustained the American scale of wages, maintained the American standard of living, prevented a nationwide money panic and kept thousands of men and women at work in every community who would otherwise have been listed among the unemployed.

"The past year, however, has disclosed a well-laid plan by the Democrats to embarrass the Republican administration and to discredit the President of the United States. And there has been no letup in Raskob's 'smear Hoover' campaign. To win in 1932 the Democrats must destroy the Republican leader. By subtle innuendo and insidious propaganda, which is being carried on by Raskob's organization in every community in the United States, they hope to break down the people's confidence in Herbert Hoover and thereby elect a Democrat in 1932.

Suggests Campaign Plan

"As precinct leader you can give great assistance to your party and your administration. If you will keep your precinct organization active throughout the year. Talk to your neighbors. Stand up for your party. Defend the President. We are looking to you to protect the Republican party in your precinct.

"The national committee will carry on an aggressive, active, determined campaign from this day until the polls close in 1932. With your assistance—your advice—before the people, victory will be ours."

Accompanying the letter was an enclosure suggesting that precinct leaders arrange for meetings on Lincoln's birthday to hear President Hoover's speech over the radio.

"There is magic in the name of Lincoln," said the enclosure, "and the coming together of Republicans under these auspices will surely reinforce the party spirit and fire anew our enthusiasm for the task ahead of us."

URGES LAW TO SAVE OHIO COUNTY FAIRS

State President Would Require Commissioners To Set Aside Funds.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 14—Legislation to compel county commissioners to set aside money for the holding of county fairs was urged today at a joint meeting of the Ohio Fair Managers' association and the state department of agriculture.

The recommendation came from Judge L. L. Holderman of Dayton, president of the fair managers' group. The proposal is designed to insure the permanency of the county expositions, many of which have been abandoned in recent years because of a lack of funds.

At present county commissioners are empowered, if they see fit, to spend $10,000 for a fair, but it is only in rare instances that they see fit, Holderman said. Existing laws apportion a state per capita tax of $800 and an amount raging from $1,500 to $2,000 to encourage fairs, but instead of this figure, some members of the association want the $10,000 from county budgets made mandatory.

The convention will continue through tomorrow. Governor George White will be the honor guest at a banquet tonight.

PLAN DROUTH FUND DRIVE

Chairman Smart To Name Committee To Conduct Red Cross Campaign Here.

COUNTY QUOTA IS $5,000

Hoover Calls for Nation to Raise $10,000,000 To Aid 17 States.

Earl T. Smart, chairman of Marion County Chapter, American Red Cross, last night was authorized to appoint a committee to consider ways and means of raising the chapter's $5,000 quota in the nationwide drive of the National Red Cross for $10,000,000 drouth relief.

This committee probably will be appointed shortly, and a meeting will be held to set the task of raising $5,000 in Marion city and Marion county under way.

Accepts Quota

The assigned quota of $5,000 was accepted in a reply telegram of Chairman Smart to John Barton Payne, head of the national organization, yesterday, after a telegram from national headquarters explaining the need of the $10,000,000 drive had been received here.

President Herbert Hoover yesterday issued a formal proclamation calling for public contribution of a minimum of $10,000,000, according to Associated Press dispatches from Washington. The problem of drouth relief in 21 states was termed by National Chairman Payne as "the greatest emergency in peace time that the organization has ever been called upon to meet."

To Overshadow Flood

The Red Cross chairman said he expected the cost of relief would overshadow the expenditures following the Mississippi flood of 1927 which cost it $16,994,668. Already some $5,000,000 of Red Cross funds have been given over to the present task.

"While at the peak of the Mississippi river flood work we were feeding and providing living quarters in refugee camps for 325,000 persons," said Payne, "we find today that we have already given drouth assistance to 405,000 persons and calls are increasing daily, indicating that the peak is not yet in sight."

Three hundred and fifty counties in 17 states already have persons being fed by the Red Cross and four other states were seen as possible recipients of aid before the task is done.

RUMOR FALSE

No Credence Given Report Fliers Fell Into Sea.

By International News Service.

LISBON, Portugal, Jan. 14—The Portuguese destroyer Ibo, ordered to search the vicinity of Sao Miguel island on reports here that an "object" though to have been the New York-to-Paris monoplane Tradewind had been seen falling into the sea Sunday morning, was recalled today when the rumors could not be substantiated.

The naval authorities dispatched the destroyer in the hope of finding the aviators, Mrs. Beryl Hart and William S. MacLaren, alive somewhere in the designated vicinity.

Later advices from authentic sources on San Miguel island said there was no foundation for the rumor, following an extensive search in the parts where the "object" was reported to have fallen.

Mr. Schaffner announced his retirement from the board of directors of the bank in the annual meeting of stockholders and directors yesterday afternoon. All other officials were reelected.

With Bank 50 Years

He has been associated with the bank more than 50 years, including 19 years as president and nearly 40 years as director. Mr. Schaffner asked to be relieved of the directorship because of ill health.

Mr. Schaffner's interests and activities were widespread. He was associated with boards of directors of a number of corporations, and has seen some service in public life. Predicts New Era in Economic and Political System of Country.

By The Associated Press.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 14—Taking the oath as governor of Maryland for the fourth consecutive time, Albert C. Ritchie, the first ever to be reelected to that office, today made an attack on national prohibition and federal centralization and called for a return "to the virtues of a larger measure of self-help and localized government."

He declared that business must realize the problem of unemployment "is its own and not the states," and that "government itself has helped create the present crisis."

GOV. RITCHIE

Governor Ritchie, often mentioned as a Democratic Presidential possibility, made his address over a national radio hookup after he had been sworn in.

Predicts New Era

"I believe the country is entering a decade which will see a new economic and political dispensation in which the ideals and principles inherent in our Maryland traditions and institutions will win fulfilment," said Governor Ritchie.

COLD WEATHER, SNOW DUE TO HIT HERE

Temperature Predicted to Drop, Bringing First Taste of Winter in 1931.

Snow-laden cold weather, which may give Ohio its first real taste of winter since the turn of the year, was forecast for Thursday by the United States weather bureau at Columbus. Fair and colder was predicted for tonight.

Temperatures were down below freezing today, reaching minimums ranging from 17 to 11 above this morning throughout the state, according to the United Press. A cold area from the northwest is slowly pushing south and was preceded today and yesterday by intermittent snow flurries.

The thermometer in Marion yesterday ranged from a high of 33 to a low of 17, quite a contract for a year ago today when the temperature hit a high of 59 with a low of 35.

While storms raged and temperatures sank to as low as 26 below zero in Canada, the mercury remained well above zero in most parts of the states, but dropped below in the Dakotas and threatened to do so in other sections.

Along the Atlantic coast there were frequent snow flurries, but temperatures remained comparatively moderate. The forecast was for cloudy and colder weather.

STOLEN CAR'S DRIVER HURT

Harold Crissinger, 22, Seriously Injured in Auto Accident.

HITS FREIGHT INTERURBAN

G. E. Sobers' Machine Is Wrecked; Former Reformatory Inmate.

After wrecking a stolen automobile in a head on collision with a C., D. & M. Electric Co. freight interurban on Davids street last night, Harold Crissinger, 22, of 788 York street is believed improving from serious injuries at City hospital today.

Crissinger narrowly escaped with his life, when a Ford sedan which police say had been stolen from G. E. Sobers of 120 South Seffner avenue earlier last night, crashed into the freight car as he attempted to pass another automobile on Davids street. The accident occurred shortly after 9 p. m.

Although unconscious until 1 a. m. today and severely lacerated, Crissinger is showing rapid improvement. For a time, it was believed he was suffering from a fractured skull and that his chances for recovery were little. A later examination by physicians revealed that his skull was not fractured.

Crissinger only a few weeks ago was released from Dayton work house where he served a 90 day sentence for chicken stealing. Last May he was released from Mansfield reformatory after convicted and sentenced on a theft charge here.

The Ford sedan he was driving was almost a complete wreck. The left front section of the car was crumpled, and the automobile is believed beyond repair. The car was only a few months old. The car was taken from a parking place in front of 436 Otley avenue.

Police placed Crissinger under arrest, but he was immediately rushed to the hospital in the W. C. Boyd ambulance. The automobile was towed to the McDaniel Motor Co.

SMOKE, BUT NO FIRE

Fire Chief T. J. McFarland and a number of his men searched the residence of Sheriff C. C. Fye in the front of the county jail at 2 p. m. today for the origin of smoke, which was detected in the house. The traces of smoke and the odor gradually cleared away. No cause for the smoke could be found. The call was answered in the fire chief's car.

COURT ORDER ISSUED TO STEEL OFFICIALS

Must Show Cause Why Bonus Accounting Should Not Be Made.

By The Associated Press.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 14—An order calling on the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and a group of officers and directors to show cause Jan. 27, why they should not give an accounting of payment of bonuses totaling $36,493,668 was signed today by Vice Chancellor Backes.

A temporary injunction, sought by four stockholders who asked the refund of any part of the bonus total found to be excessive, was denied. The injunction would have restrained the company from making further bonus payments pending settlement of the suit.

The bonuses were paid over a period from Jan. 1, 1911, to June 30, 1930.

The defendants are Eugene G. Grace, president, Charles M. Schwab, chairman, and 15 past and present directors of the company.

The complainant says that the facts of the bonus payments were learned last summer from testimony in the trial of a suit to prevent the merger of the Bethlehem Steel corporation and the Youngstown Sheet & Tube company.

Grace testified that his bonuses since 1925 had been: 1925, $709,173; 1926, $852,160; 1927, $721,885; 1928, $831,445; 1929, $1,623,753.

The bonuses for six other officers in 1929 all of whom are named in the stockholders' suit were: Quincey Bent $378,664; C. Austin Buck, $378, 664; John M. Gross, $110,077; H. Edgar Lewis $374,784; Robert E. McMath, $134,538; James H. Ward $54,305.

O K NAVY BILL

House Committee Members Approve Fund of $74,000,000.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14—A $74,000,000 naval construction bill was approved today by the house naval committee.

Approval was not accorded, however, to Secretary Adams' recommendation for authorization of $16,000,000 for a six-inch gun cruiser of the type over which there has been considerable dispute.

Chairman Britten said it was not included because the committee was disinclined to use up cruiser tonnage allowed under the London treaty without first determining whether a new "flying deck" cruiser would prove satisfactory.

NEARBY TOWNS SEND HELP TO SAVE VILLAGE

Three Buildings Housing Business Places Are Burned to Ground.

BLAZE'S ORIGIN UNKNOWN

Block Destroyed by Flames 31 Years Ago; Stiff Wind Adds Danger.

Special to The Star.

MARSEILLES, O., Jan. 14—The Marseilles business district was threatened by a fire which this morning destroyed three commercial structures at a loss estimated between $35,000 and $40,000.

Of unknown origin, the flames constantly were threatening to spread to nearby buildings. Fire departments from Upper Sandusky, LaRue and Kenton were called to the village and confined the loss to the three buildings after battling for several hours.

It was the second fire in the last 31 years to cause heavy damage to buildings located in the same block. Jan. 29, 1900 the same section was destroyed.

Awakened by Flames

The flames were discovered by Grant Vanatta at 1:30 a. m. Vanatta, who resides near the business district, was awakened by light reflected from the blaze.

The fire started in the second story of a frame structure owned by John Ault and rapidly spread to adjoining buildings owned by Carl Crowe and E. M. Uncapher.

Practically all the stock and furnishings of the buildings were destroyed. Uncapher was able to save a few things from his building.

The I. O. O. F. lodge club rooms, a poolroom, meat market, grocery and cream station were located in the three buildings.

Wind Adds To Danger

Members of the LaRue and Upper Sandusky fire departments were active in fighting the blaze. The Kenton department did not arrive until the flames were under control. Water was pumped from a nearby creek and a barn in the rear of the Uncapher building was saved.

A stiff wind added to the danger and the L. H. Ducklingham structure on the opposite side of the street caught fire several times from flying embers.

Included in the loss will be a large amount of farm products stored in the basements of the buildings. The loss is only partially covered by insurance.

Marseilles is in Wyandot county about 20 miles north of Marion near the Marion-Wyandot county line.

COMMISSION UNABLE TO FIND SOLE CAUSE

Michigan Crime Investigators Discover Numerous Reasons for Crime Tendencies.

By The Associated Press.

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 14 — After more than a year's study, the state crime commission authorized by the 1929 legislature made its report late Tuesday, declaring it was unable to determine the primary or moving cause of crime and describing the problem as one so gigantic a permanent commission should be established.

Gambling, the use of narcotics, "easy money from bootleggers," the use of liquor by minors and other things were mentioned as probable causes of crime, but the report states there "is no single cause, likewise there is no panacea to be offered."

To discourage crime, the commission advocated action by the legislature to require schools to offer instruction in character, morals and law observance.

The commission advocated increasing the penalty for kidnaping to a maximum of life and for extortion to 20 years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

Jail Helps

(Will Rogers Special)

CLAREMORE, Okla., Jan. 14

Well, I flew into Oklahoma yesterday just one day after our new governor was christened. He had been in 24 hours, with no talk of impeachment, so it looks like we got a novelty in there at last.

He is going to help out Oklahoma's unemployment problem by not releasing any more prisoners. If we had everybody back in jail that was in and that ought to be in why we would have to borrow outside hands.

Yours,

Will Rogers

MEETING IS BRIEF

Only Three of Law Enforcement Board at Session; More Delay.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14—Another delay appeared in prospect today for submission of the law enforcement commission's prohibition report to President Hoover.

The commission was scheduled to meet, but only three members appeared. The session lasted little more than 10 minutes.

Another meeting was set for tomorrow, but it was problematical whether a quorum could be gathered at that time.

No indication was given at the White House or at commission headquarters as to when the report would be presented.

Although almost everybody except the Cardinals has arranged a deal involving the big first baseman, Sunny Jim still is on the roster of the Redbirds, and with his old poise back he's ready to set his cap at that funny angle he likes to wear it and defend his job against the challenge of Jim (Rip) Collins, coming up from Rochester.

Waldo Again Assumes Temporary Lead in Y-Church Cage League

DEFEATS CHRISTIAN TEAM EASILY 37-12

Trinity Wallops Lee Street with Four Players; Reformed Moves Up.

WALDO again assumed a temporary advantage last night over other contestants of the Y-Church cage circuit by trouncing the hapless Christian No. 2 five 37 to 12 in a one sided contest. The victory gives the out-of-town boys a record of five victories and no defeats which puts them at the head of the league until Saturday night. Christian No. 1 and Presbyterians, now deadlocked with four wins each, will fight it out at that time to see who shares the top post with Waldo

Trinity Baptist demonstrated convincingly last night that it doesn't always take five men to win a basketball game. The Baptists played Lee Street to a standstill with only a quartet of men on the floor and no substitutions were made during the game. The score was 30 to 18. Wainfor, center, and Osterholt, guard, had a field night in scoring, the former collecting 14 and the latter nine points.

H. Richards of the defeated Lee Street five did all he could to keep his team in the running, scoring a quartet of field goals for eight points.

Waldo had little difficulty in taking the lowly Central Christian team into camp. The Christians used two full teams in a futile effort to stem the tide of baskets which rolled from the ranks of the Waldo sharpshooters but to no avail. Conwell, H. Strine and W. Rengert tossed buckets with utter abandon to leave the Christians far behind. W. Rengert led the scorers with seven field goals.

First Reformed moved up another notch in the standings by handing Prospect its fourth beating of the season, 32 to 11. Reformed had little trouble in chalking up the victory, which gives them a record of three won and two lost puts them in a tie for fifth place in the 12 team league.

INTEREST MOUNTS IN RACE FOR COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP

Quartet of Games Listed for Play Friday Night in Rural Loop.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

THE usual quartet of contests will occupy the attention of the rural basketball teams of Marion county athletic league Friday night The boys and girls teams of Waldo and LaRue, who will have an off night in the schedule will meet non-league opponents.

Waldo boys will play Mecker but the girls of Waldo will be idle This is the last non league engagement which the Waldo team will play LaRue goes to Mt. Gilead to meet both the boys and girls teams there

Besides the games Friday night in which county quintets will play a part there are several other contests booked in which teams that claim membership in no particular circuit will be participants. Headlining these non-league contests will be the St. Mary's Fostoria St Wendelin fray Friday and the two contest Saturday night between the Shovel Y-Indus and Middletown fives and the First Presbyterian and Central Christian No. 1 teams

The two remaining games of the Sunday school schedule for Saturday night will see Epworth pitted against United Brethren and St Mary's battling Calvary

Vernon to Mansfield

Vernon Heights Junior High of Marion will trek to Mansfield Friday night in an attempt to accomplish what Central Junior couldn't do a week ago, namely, beat Simpson Junior High of that city.

Central Junior will make its second sally into foreign territory, this time to play a preliminary to the Harding Bucyrus, N. C. O. contest. Bucyrus Junior High will oppose the Central netters.

The Presbyterian-Christian conflict will be the first of the trio scheduled for the Y court Saturday. This battle is expected to draw the largest crowd of the season to date as the two teams are now deadlocked with Waldo for the leadership of the 12 team Sunday school circuit. Both these two and Waldo have won four and lost none The game will start at 7 15

Y-Indus Scheduled

Marion's leading amateur quintet, the Shovel Y Indus will be tackling a team Saturday night that it has already beaten once this season. Despite this fact the down-staters are expected to provide plenty of opposition for the Marion club. The Y-Indus will not be helped any by the fact that the Presbie-Christian conflict is called for the same evening Four of the five first-string Y-Indus team are members of either the Presbyterian or the Christian teams. However not all of them are expected to play in the Sunday school game

Rural Interest Mounts

Interest in the rural cage circuit is expected to reach the highest pitch of the season thus far with the Friday night battles throughout the county. With the previous contests of the season having fairly definitely established the real contenders for the title the desperate scramble for supremacy of the hardcourt will be on

In the eastern half of the circuit, Caledonia will make the jaunt to Claridon to try conclusions with the boys and girls teams of that place, and the two Kirkpatrick teams will clash with the representatives of Martel on the latter's court.

Eastern district games will see Pleasant Township training its high-powered scoring guns at the Prospect defenses while Morral will do what it can at Green Camp in an effort to retain its standing at the head of this column, to present both the boys' and girls' teams of Morral are leading the western section of the league

Independent Teams Also Scheduled for Battles in Week-End Starts.

MAY POSTPONE BOUT

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 — Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, is suffering from a heavy cold and probably will not be able to go through with his bout with Johnny Farr, of Cleveland, set for Friday at New Orleans. He has applied for a postponement.

CITY BOARD OF HEALTH
CITY HALL
RENO, NEVADA

September 23, 1930.

The American Cigar Company,
111 Fifth Avenue,
New York, New York.

Gentlemen:

Your very effective campaign in the newspapers against "spit-tipping" by some cigar manufacturers is decidely in the interest of the public health and in my opinion you are to be commended for this public service.

The use of the word "spit" forcibly calls attention to the evils of the "spit-tipping" methods and no other word could as effectivoly get over your message to the public.

Our health department is interested in those campaigns which tend to improve general health conditions and in our opinion your present campaign comes within this classification.

Therefore since I consider your campaign to be in the interest of public health since it directs attention to a bad sanitary condition in some cigar manufacturing plants, you have my permission to use this letter if my statement is of value to you.

Sincerely yours,
A. F. Adams
City Health Officer.

...one of 56 health officials from 56 different points approving Cremo's crusade against spit or spit-tipping.

Every smoker, every wife whose husband smokes cigars, should read Dr. Adams' letter.

"Who are the friends of 'Spit'?"

YOU MAY WELL ASK THIS QUESTION WHEN 56 IMPORTANT HEALTH OFFICIALS HAVE WRITTEN SO STRONGLY AGAINST THE EVILS OF SPIT OR SPIT-TIPPING.

Dr. Adams writes: "The use of the word 'spit' forcibly calls attention to the evils of the 'spit-tipping' methods."

The war against spit is a crusade of decency. Join it...Smoke Certified Cremo—a really wonderful smoke—mild—mellow—nut-sweet! Every leaf entering the clean, sunny Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture.

In this period of cold weather and cracked lips, above all insist on a cigar—free of the spit germ.

It's Your Valves

When your auto gets wabbly and weak-kneed—gets tired easily when climbing hills — lacks pep and power—you are apt to blame the gas, the carburetor, the ignition, the pistons and rings, when the chances are 10 to 1 that your whole trouble is in your valves.

They need correction—and we specialize in that work. We use the KWIK-WAY SYSTEM of scientific valve correction—the best system known to the automotive industry. Drive in—let us give your car the once-over. 10 to 1 the whole trouble is in your valves!

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meat, Grain, Livestock

Something new and different in methods of marketing oranges was being practiced here today following the arrival of a carload lot of Florida oranges in bulk. A local wholesaler bought the carload and is selling the fruit to grocers by the pound, who are passing the bargain on to Marion customers at five to seven cents a pound. The average cost for a dozen of these oranges, which vary in size, is from 10 to 25 cents.

Smaller sizes of head lettuce are now selling at three for 25 cents but the large select sizes continue to sell at 18 cents a head.

WHEAT SCORES SHARP GAINS

Domestic Prices Higher Despite Downturns in Liverpool Quotations.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14 — Despite sharp downturns in Liverpool quotations, wheat here advanced today to new high levels for the present movement. Scarcity of offerings was a bracing influence, together with reports that the main domestic winter wheat belt had become bare of snow. Corn sagged, owing largely to announcement that the number of cattle on feed in corn belt states was 10 per cent smaller than a year ago.

Starting ⅜c off to ⅝c up, Chicago wheat afterward showed general gains. Corn opened ⅜@½c lower and subsequently rallied.

Helping to lift wheat in the face of Liverpool price setbacks were official reports that the Argentine government would use gold reserves immediately to support exchange rates. Breaks in the Liverpool wheat market were ascribed to weakness of Argentine exchange and to predictions of consequent pressure of Argentine wheat abroad. Reports from India told of continued drouth.

Nebraska was the only corn belt state where an increase of cattle on feed was reported. Five corn states east of the Mississippi showed a decrease of 15 per cent. The belt as a whole reported the number of cattle on feed as the smallest since 1921, and probably the smallest since 1916. Oats sympathized with corn.

Provisions were responsive to downturns in hog values.

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, Jan. 15

A DAY of entirely unforeseen and abrupt visitations may be forecast from the dominant places of the precipitate Mars and Uranus, strong in mutual relations as well as by lunar aspect. These figures make for sudden and revolutionary moves, of far-reaching influence on the life and affairs generally. The energies are under high impetus, ingenious and ardent, possibly inciting to radical change, travel and new ventures. This follows the breaking away of long thwarting obstacles and congestions, and should lead far on the way to progress and cherished goals.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for an unusually lively, important and, probably, exciting year. There may be radical change, new ventures and thrilling experiences, all in the direction of progress and success. Old obstructions will pass away to make way for splendid initiative and constructive application. A child born on this day should be talented and skilled in many directions, being original, inventive and aggressive, as well as steady, practical and industrious. It should travel far and reach important position.

King Male Quartet Wins Hearty Applause Here

Ease and informality in presenting their program gained the members of the King Male quartet a hearty applause last night when they appeared at Central Junior high school as the fourth number on the high school entertainment course

Lloyd King, baritone of the quartet, and manager, is a Cleveland man, Tom Lytl, lead tenor, with double tones of tenor and a high male soprano, is from Oklahoma. Evard Servosse sang first tenor and George Gadowsky, of New York, sang bass

The feature of the program was the Swiss bell ringing. With 38 bells, each of a slightly varying tone, the quartet, and in several numbers, a trio, played MacDowell's "To A Wild Rose," "Onward Christian Soldiers" Sullivan, "Sweet and Low," "Melody in F," Rubenstein, "The Mocking Bird,' and "Sunday Morning in London"

Variety was added with humorous readings and piano-accordion numbers by Gadowsky several funny stories told by Servosse, two popular songs, "Swingin' In A Hammock," and "Betty Co Ed, sung by Servosse, Lytl and King, and an "Arkansas Traveler" number by King.

The quartet rendition of "Going Home" from the Largo movement of Dvorak's "New World Symphony, was one of the most beautiful in harmony of the entire program of vocal numbers Two Negro spirituals, were "Talk About Jerusalem Morning" and "Hear dem Bells"

Lytl's double-range voice was something new to many of the audience and they especially enjoyed his two solos, "Morning," by Speaks and "L'Amour Toujours," Friml Gadowsky played the piano accompanist.

The quartet numbers sang included 'On the Sea,' the opening number, "Massa's In the Cold, Cold Ground," a close-harmony song, Sullivan's "The Long Day Closes," "The Shadow March' with lyric by Robert Louis Stevenson, and "Annie Laurie" One of the numbers was a lullaby, "The Sandman a solo sung by King, with a humming accompaniment by the trio

One of the highlights of the 1930-31 course will be the appearance of Capt Dennis Rooke, famous for his 7,000 mile flight from London to India in a single-engined Moth plane Wednesday night, Feb 4, at Central Junior High school

TAX PAYMENTS $10,000 DAILY

Collection Compares Favorably With Last Year, Shelton Says.

Tax collections in Marion county are averaging approximately $10,730 daily this year as compared to about $10,790 daily last year, according to figures released today by County Treasurer Bert J Shelton.

A total of $193,237.65 had been collected at the close of business yesterday as compared to $260,607.56 for the corresponding date last year, but the former represents only 15 days' collection and the latter was for 26 days, since collections began eight days earlier last year.

Collections for the December payment began later this year because of the late certification of tax rates by the state auditor. The rates at first were held up here due to levies on which the voters balloted last Nov. 4, and the belated certification prevented Shelton from making out the semi-annual bills.

The receipts are expected to be boosted considerably when banks in the county begin collections in their respective districts. The Campbell bank at LaRue will collect from Montgomery, Grand and Bowling Green townships on next Tuesday and Wednesday and on the same days, in addition to Thursday, the Caledonia bank will collect from taxpayers living in Claridon, Scott and Tully townships.

Other collection dates at the banks are as follows: Jan. 22 and 23—LaRue bank, Montgomery, Grand and Bowling Green townships; Morral bank, Salt Rock township, and Waldo bank, Waldo township; Jan. 28, 29 and 30—Prospect, Citizens bank, Prospect township; Jan. 29 and 30—People's bank, Green Camp township.

The treasurer's office will be open from 7 to 9 p. m., Thursday of this week and on Monday, Jan. 26. The office will be open every Saturday from 1 to 3 p. m., in addition to the regular hours which are from 8 to 11:30 a. m. and from 1 to 4 p. m. daily.

CLARIDON, Jan. 14—Temperance day will be observed at the Claridon schools Friday at 2:30 p. m. A program featuring an address by Dr. C. E. Turley of Marion will be given.

A scripture reading will be given by Dorothy George, recitations by Millard Moreland, Helen Miller and Harold Retterer, reading by Lester Stout, essay by Mary Ellen Retterer and numbers by a quartet composed of Melvin Daugherty, Howard Tittlebaugh, Walter Schwaderer and Jack Midlam. NATHAN STRAUS ernor Al Smith. Leonard was a "pal" of the philanthropist, who was interested in sport next to his interest in human beings.

Others included Mayor James J. Walker, Chancellor Elmer Ellsworth Brown of New York University, Arthur Brisbane, Julius Rosenwald, Rev. Dr. John Haynes Holmes, Federal Judge Julian W Mack and Felix M. Warburg

Professor Phelps, in his funeral address, said he often had heard Nathan Straus say:

'Money given in health is gold 'Money given in sickness is silver.

"Money given after death is lead.'

Outstanding Benefactores

Professor Phelps recalled four great enterprises with which the name of Nathan Straus always would be associated

1. Opening of lodging houses for the unemployed in 1905

2. The first "preventorium" established in 1909 in Lakewood, N J., to save children from tuberculosis

3 The Straus campaign for pasteurization of milk "by which method he has saved the lives of hundreds of thousands of children"

4. The nonsectarian medical and health establishments in Palestine

Professor Phelps said Straus and his wife "were devoted lovers all their lives, celebrating their golden wedding in 1928."

Burial took place in the family vault in Cypress Hills cemetery.

RAILROADS FILE RATE PROTESTS

Northwestern Lines Ask Further Inquiry into Two-Cent Fare Program.

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan 14—Northwestern railroads united today in a petition to the interstate commerce commission protesting the two-cent per-mile passenger fare proposed by the St. Louis-San Francisco railway. They asked the commission to suspend the proposed rates, which would become effective Feb 1, pending investigation and hearing.

The protesting roads—the St Louis-Southwestern, Missouri, Kansas-Texas and Missouri-Pacific—asserted that because the Frisco lines covered the same territory as theirs, they would be forced to cut their passenger fares to meet the competition.

The petitioners contended it would be necessary for them to increase coach travel 80 per cent under the two-cent rate in order to do the same volume of business as is being done now with the present 3 6-cent basis rate. This they say, cannot be done.

MARION RATE LOW FOR AUTO INSURANCE

Still Next to Lowest in State Despite Recent Increase.

Liability and property damage insurance for the protection of automobile drivers is slightly higher in Marion and Marion county this year. Higher rates made necessary by the number of accidents in this district was responsible for the increase made by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, according to local insurance men

Since the determination of the new rates, all conference insurance companies will charge $10 and $8 for liability and property damage policies formerly sold for $16 and $8. Policies of the same nature for larger automobiles formerly selling for $20 and $11 are now quoted at $22 and $10. For still larger automobiles, policies formerly selling for $26 and $13 are now listed at $29 and $13, according to insurance men.

With the increase considered, Marion county is still next to the lowest classification of risks in the state, according to agents

Liability insurance protects the driver against a damage suit up to $5,000 for one person or up to $10,000 in any one wreck for injury to a person or persons or for loss of life. Property damage insurance protects the driver up to $5,000 for damage done to property in an accident.

LAST NIGHT at the THEATERS

SWEETHEART DUO BACK AT PALACE

JANET GAYNOR and Charles Farrell, the screen's sweetheart duo, go in for heavier drama in "The Man Who Came Back," at the Palace tonight and Thursday.

Farrell is the son of a Wall Street baron, who because of one of his escapades, is given a ticket to Frisco, a job there and $5,000 in cash, but no more until he proves himself a man. The wild life continues and his first real love is Janet, a cabaret singer.

We follow them through a devious road to happiness which shanghaies Farrell to China and leaves Janet in an opium dive. The way in which they work out their salvation and finally, real happiness makes fair entertainment. We liked Ferrell and Gaynor in their light, lilting stories of young romance better, though.

$14,500,000, and Germany has just shipped into Russia 30 carloads of machinery and equipment for a large ammonia factory, one of several such shipments sent by Germany to Russia within the last few years. German engineers and chemists will erect and supervise the factories, which can be used, and probably are intended, to manufacture poisonous war gas. Perhaps we underestimate Russia. The allies may have made a mistake disarming Germany and making her worthless as a buffer between Russia and Western Europe.

THE CHAMBER of Commerce of the United States finds outrageous the suggestion that government should operate power plants at Muscle Shoals, built with public money.

Suppose gentlemen of that chamber had built Muscle Shoals with their money and the people tried to take it from them for their own benefit. What would the chamber say about that?

• • •

"Our best minds," those that very intelligently exploit the country's resources, have had their way since the big war and before. And they have landed temporarily in the ditch. Why not give the government a chance? It may not be as inefficient and dishonest as some "best minds" think.

Muscle Shoals could supply cheap fertilizers to farmers, cheap power to cities and industry.

Our high finance is contributing tens of millions in loans and machinery to a Russian experiment that includes government ownership of everything. Why not try it on a modest scale here?

CHICAGO'S new racket is called a "schochtim war," connected with the slaughtering of poultry and other animals according to Jewish ritual, which demands elimination of all the animals' blood. Racketeers broke into this industry, but Chicago's rabbinate thought they were rid of the plague. But today the schochtim union head, S. Rest, chosen by the rabbis, is warned by the business agent of the racket that if he doesn't get out he will know just what it means to be put on the spot.

This strange racket would surprise Moses, whose laws make necessary the ritual slaughtering. If he were alive he might say, "When I wrote my dietary laws, we lived in a hot country and had no ice boxes. Change them now in accordance with common sense, and slaughter animals with the least possible infliction of pain."

Governor Ritchie rapped the "inflationary statements and actions which incited, or at least intensified the crash of 1929," and said that "before the debris from that could be cleared up, the federal government followed it up with unsupported and misleading statements promising an early, if not immediate, return to prosperity which has not yet materialized.

New Version of Law

"There has also been developed the conception that law is no longer a barrier protecting the rights of the individual against any who would invade them.

"The high water mark of all this was national prohibition as imposed by the Eighteenth amendment, and no matter what the findings of the Wickersham committee may be they cannot end, nor can they minimize the injury to the cause of reasonable temperance, the unhappy temptations to the youth of the land and the lawlessness and disregard for law which have resulted from putting prohibition in the constitution, where it ought not to be, instead of leaving the question to the states, where it ought to be."

"We have been steadfast in this position when others who now embrace it and acclaim it lacked either the courage or the conviction to declare it."

Flood of Bills Begins in State Legislature

Anti-Prohibition Proposals Prominent in First Contents of Assembly Hopper; White Plans Another Message.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 14—Ohio's legislature had before it today a myriad of bills and resolutions dealing with almost every conceivable program except those on which Governor White urged prompt action—taxation and unemployment relief.

Before adjourning yesterday after hearing the governor's first message, the assembly received 47 new bills and one joint resolution The latter, sponsored by Senator L. L. Marshall of Cleveland, asks the legislature to petition the national congress to call a constitutional convention for prohibition repeal. This measure made a total of 11 anti-prohibition proposals submitted since the assembly convened last week.

Others Provide for Repeal

Others would repeal the state prohibition constitutional amendment and all liquor law enforcement acts.

Governor White won the first important victory of his administration when he succeeded yesterday in his initial effort to eliminate the lump sum method of handling the state's finance. Acting on the governor's recommendations, the senate finance committee voted to revamp the emergency appropriation bill as drawn up under the Cooper administration. The bill, carrying about $24,000,000 for government operations during the next six months, will be redrafted to make the appropriations more specific.

The finance committee approved another emergency bill providing $6,500,000 for highway construction, $250,000 for replacement of the McKinley cottage at Massillon state hospital which was destroyed by fire, and appropriations for a water supply at Hawthornden farm, completion of equipment at the Apple Creek hospital and the Gallipolis hospital for epileptics

Governor White will address the assembly again soon to outline his policies on problems other than those covered in his first message.

Additional Proposals

Besides the prohibition measures, other bills in the hoppers would:

Create a state board of elections with jurisdiction now held by the secretary of state; fix life imprisonment as the penalty for persons using firearms in robberies unless the jury recommends clemency; provide compulsory teaching in high school science courses of the effect of alcohol and narcotics on the human body; establish Grafton State farm as a separate state institution; redistribute gasoline tax monies; prohibit the sale of firearms; give illigitimate children the right to inherit their father's estate; raise the mileage compensation of legislators from railroad rates to 10 cents a mile; provide for sterilization of certain classes of defectives

LOVE MESSAGES ARE BARED DURING TRIAL

Telegrams to Clara Bow Read as Evidence in Theft Case.

By The Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 14—Affectionately phrased telegrams to Clara Bow, introduced in evidence, intensified interest today in the trial of Daisy DeBoe, her former secretary, charged with the theft of $18,000 from the red-headed flapper of the films.

Miss Bow took the stand yesterday and alternately wept, smiled, wrung her gloved hands and powdered her nose during the reading of the messages baring mementoes of her past romances. She testified her one-time secretary wanted $125,000 for the telegrams before they were recovered by prosecutors from Miss DeBoe.

The telegrams contained such endearing expressions as:

"An elegant gift like yourself. None other superior. Love and loneliness Earl"

"Swiftly my love flies back to you my own sweet darling Earl"

"Be a good girl and don't stay out late with the boys. All 'Frisco is not large enough for my love. Harry."

"Dear sweetheart darling baby I do miss you and this is only the beginning. Rex."

"The old homestead don't seem the same since our Nell left and the steam room won't steam any more Harry"

Three men whose name have recently been linked with Miss Bow as having been those of "boy friends" are Dr Earl Pierson, whom Miss Bow visited in Texas several months ago; Harry Richman of New York, and Rex Bell, motion picture cowboy actor and business manager for the actress.

The district attorney had ready for introduction today a lengthy statement made recently by Miss DeBoe in which details were given of how Miss Bow spent approximately $350,000 on "necessities" in less than two years. The statement details expenditures made by Miss Bow by her erstwhile secretary-confidant, who is charged with 37 counts of grand theft, totalling $16,000.

SUES COMMUNISTS

Butcher Gets Lien on Building As Bill Goes Unpaid.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14—Communist headquarters at Union square is under lien because it didn't pay a $25,000 butcher bill.

Joseph Katz, the butcher, alleges in his suit that the Communist leaders have secretly sold the building to themselves by transferring ownership from the Union square corporation to the Sentinel press. They were attempting to evade the indebtedness, he claims.

The corporate cafeteria on the ground floor recently failed for more than $100,000 after attempting to operate on a pay-as-you-leave basis. The patrons never left, it was said, but lingered on to argue over their meals and sleep where they argued.

Katz obtained a mortgage on the building to secure his bill and even loaned money to re-establish it on a capitalist basis, but the new system ran afoul of Communist theories.

According to Elsie McCormick, "the average woman marries what she can get rather than what she wants." Really, Elsie, such candor is heartless.

There is nothing amazingly startling in the statement of Police Commissioner Mulroony, of New York, that the women of that city seeking clothing and shoes stick up their noses at perfectly good high laced shoes "because low shoes are the thing." There are cases like that the country over. Women simply must conform to the styles.

So many ways and means are being proffered for escaping future periods of business repression, that the thing is getting complicated. In the multiplicity of them, we may overlook the workable one.

Suspecting that the former management of the Hotel Bellaire had an arrangement with Rudy Vallee by which he was to get his room rent free for the advertising his presence in the hotel gave it, the receivers of that hostelry are gently hinting to the orchestra leader that they are not doing any advertising of that kind and are suggesting that he come across with the price. If such was the Bellaire management's idea of advertising, it's little wonder that that hotel is now in a receivership.

Relief for Drought Sufferers.

Marion county has been asked to raise $5,000 as its quota of the $10,000,000 drought relief fund President Hoover, at the request of Chairman John Barton Payne of the American Red Cross, has asked the people of the United States to contribute to provide food for and relieve the distress of the unfortunate in drought-afflicted areas, the latter realizing that the $5,000,000 appropriation made by his organization will not prove sufficient to accomplish the great work it has undertaken.

The lower house of congress, very wisely, we believe, has taken the view of the President that the government should not undertake the work of supplying drought victims with food; that this work should be carried on from funds raised by popular contributions, and has refused to vote for the $15,000,000 added by the senate to the $45,000,000 drought relief bill. Thus it is almost as good as assured that there will be neither a duplication of funds for food supplies nor duplication in food distribution. The Red Cross is the one organization in the country trained for distribution of food supplies on so great a scale; the one organization equipped to do the work thoroughly and well.

The Red Cross is and for weeks has been in the field and carrying on the work of relief. Contributions to it will be to a going concern, while any fund raised by congressional action could not be utilized to good effect until some kind of a working organization could be effected or the money be parceled out here, there and everywhere throughout the affected areas without regard to the real needs of such areas. Even were there adequate way of handling any appropriation congress might make for food purposes, such has been the course of certain members of the senate in seeking political advantage, that the work of affording relief would be too long delayed.

The people of the United States have ever and always attuned themselves sympathetically to calls for the relief of want, of distress, of suffering, no matter from what quarters, whether home or foreign, such calls have come, and we take pride in the fact that such has been the case. We haven't a doubt but what this call of the Red Cross, coming through President Hoover, will on this occasion touch the hearts of a philanthropically-inclined people as it has in the past. What is true of the country, is true as well of the people of Marion county, and we look to see the quota set for the county quickly raised. It would be entirely contrary to our estimate of the citizens of the county did not the answer to the call show that each of us is ready to do his or her share. We have many calls for relief here at home, and we probably will have more, but this should not cause us to build a wall of indifference about us to shut out relief calls from the country without.

The Governor's First Message.

The silk hat has been put away in the governor's mansion at Columbus and the governor's household is settling down to a new routine. No more band no more applause. Hard work, criticism, and a constant effort to keep ahead of official obligations follow the governor's inaugural parade.

The first official duty is the message to the general assembly. The one which Governor White delivered Tuesday duplicates, in style, the simple earnestness that characterized his inaugural address on Monday. Mr. White is all business.

The eighty-ninth general assembly has special responsibilities, Governor White believes. It should not spare labor or time and, above all else, should not worry over the governor's party affiliations. "There must be neither vain glory nor seeking for personal or party advantage. The task before us requires on our part an eye single to the comfort, safety and well-being of the people of Ohio."

Coming immediately to the problem foremost in public attention, the governor recommends establishment of a state fund to be used for alleviating distress during 1931. The fund would supplement local funds where they were inadequate and would substitute for local funds where they were unavailable. It would be limited to the present year.

There will go general indorsement of this recommendation. President Hoover, in opposing a federal appropriation for direct relief, has expressed confidence in the ability of the states to furnish relief for their own. "Ohio is a rich state. It has generous, warm-hearted people, capable and willing to care for all who are in need," comments Governor White.

The bulk of the message comprises the governor's views on taxation, the state's gravest problem. A note of apprehension concerning the infinite difficulty of devising a new system of taxation may be detected. While it is nowhere said that the system should not be revised, there is every reason to believe that Governor White comprehends fully, and with consternation, the vastly complicated problem facing the assembly. He puts himself on record as being vehemently opposed to a state income tax, sales tax or "any other subterfuge." He desires to keep the brunt of the tax burden off the backs of the farm and home owners, the wage and average salary owners, until an earnest and honest effort has been made to secure the necessary revenues from other sources. Corporations, banks, building and loan associations, mortgage corporations and other reservoirs of invested capital have the ability to pay and should pay, the governor believes.

Whatever is accomplished in the way of tax revision, however, there are bound to be extensive decreases in tax revenues, and extensive downward revision of the state's financial program. It is interesting to note that Governor White anticipates certain salutary effects from this enforced economy.

The message to the assembly elicits the same comment as the inaugural address. If Mr. White continues to get his opinions before the people in the same lucid, convincing style, he is assured of support from all quarters.

Assuming that Mrs. Beryl Hart and Lieutenant William S. MacLaren are dead, the total dead toll of attempted transatlantic flights is now thirty-one. The publicity or pecuniary rewards to be gained from transatlantic flights are far too little to justify the risk which must be faced.

Representative Ackerman, of New Jersey, has prepared a bill providing for three-cent letter postage, his plan being to surcharge several billion two-cent stamps with the words: "Drought Relief," estimating that, were a quarter of the individuals and firms using two-cent stamps to purchase the relief issue, it would raise $5,000,000 in ten weeks. That certainly would distribute the relief burden, but how distribute the relief were the fund thus raised?

The Maharajah of Alwar remarks that "we make constitutions by day and hospitality ruins them by night." The remark will be better understood when it is recalled that the maharajah is at present over in London, and English cooking certainly is awful on constitutions not trained to it.

The house naval affairs committee has informally decided to eliminate the six-inch-gun type of cruiser and recommend the construction of but six vessels—one cruiser equipped with a deck for the taking-off or landing of planes, one 13,800-ton aircraft carrier, and four 1,100-ton fleet submarines, wisely concluding that this country with its limited number of supply bases has just about as much use for the type of cruiser eliminated as a cat for nine tails.

And now the country is being warned that we may soon experience such a business boom that we are liable to forget the lesson of the present period of depression and suffer another one. Maybe so, but we're not unlike the fellow who cried: "Who's afraid?"

And now Noblesville, Indiana, joins a number of other Hoosier cities in forecasting the near advent of spring by bobbing up with a story about first robins and bullfrogs floundering about in ponds partly frozen over. We are beginning to understand why Indiana is credited with being the very heart of the fiction belt.

Senator Davis, of Pennsylvania, says that the big campaign fund dug up in the Keystone state was not expended on his campaign, but a statement by a fellow-senator will hardly stop Senator Gerald P. Nye, especially if the senator happens to be regular.

In response to a question put to him when on the stand as a witness in the Ewald office-bartering trial in New York City, Mayor Walker denied that he ever heard up to the time he had appointed Ewald a city magistrate that he, Ewald, had paid $10,000 to a Tammany leader to get the job. It was hardly necessary to ask the mayor a question like that. He has his peculiarities, but nobody ever accused him of stupidity such as he would have shown had he named Ewald to the bench under such circumstances.

BOOSTING GASOLINE TAXES.

That heavier and heavier imposts should be put on a source of revenue so easily collectible as a gasoline-tax was inevitable. The burden grows each year. Used at first to supplement motor taxes to pay for huge highway programs under the clear justice of requiring the automobile to pay for expenditures necessitated by it, gas taxes now are diverted in many states to other functions of government.

In 1928, the last year for which complete figures on state finances are available, motor fuel taxes amounted to $241,917,000, or twelve and one-half per cent. of all revenues of the forty-eight states. Addition of more than two and a half millions assessed in license and property taxes on motor cars, the automobile paid nearly thirty per cent. of all state revenue. Highways accounted for but seventeen per cent. of all state expenditure.

Most of the state legislatures are meeting this year. It is reported that proposals for increasing gasoline taxes have taken form in a third of the states, and are likely to come up for consideration in many others. In this connection it is interesting to note that of the states taxing gasoline at only two cents a gallon several have the finest highway systems in the country, notably New York, Massachusetts, New Jersey and Wisconsin. The rate runs up as high as six cents in three states and five cents in nine. Ohio's four-cent rate applies in the largest group of states, nineteen, while Pennsylvania, with a highway system of the finest, has reduced its rate from four to three cents.

In his farewell message to the legislature, Governor Cooper declared that Ohio's gas tax was sufficient to meet all highway needs. It is to be hoped that Ohio will not fall into the error of some other states by boosting the rate whenever a little extra money is desired. The gasoline tax, applied now in every state and the District of Columbia, is a good and uncomplining horse, and consequently there is a tendency to ride it too hard.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Lincoln Passed Through Ohio in 1861.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

When Abraham Lincoln passed through Columbus late in February, 1861, on his way to Washington to be inaugurated, those few Columbus people who are old enough to remember seeing the party will recall that with the president-elect and Mrs. Lincoln were their two sons, Robert, who died five years ago, and Tad, in charge of a Negro woman who remained with the Lincolns as long as they were in the White House, and later returned to Columbus and spent the rest of her days employed by some of the old families of the city. Charlotte, the Lincolns called her, and she was more familiarly known as "Lottie."

"Lottie" lived up to her responsibilities as to the children on the trip to Washington, and the president-elect and Mrs. Lincoln were thus relieved of their care. Only one thing happened on the long trip, in connection with the boys, that caused Mr. Lincoln any annoyance. Robert, who was then in his early "teens" was entrusted with a small traveling bag which contained the president's inaugural address. He was duly impressed with the importance of his charge, but the distractions of the trip were too much for him, and it was discovered at Harrisburg that the precious bag was missing. Robert had no idea where it could be.

A search of the cars of the train was started, Mr. Lincoln himself joining in. In the baggage car they found the bag—or thought they did. Mr. Lincoln was overjoyed to find, when he tried his key on it, that it fitted the lock, but inside he found only a soiled shirt, a deck of cards and a whisky bottle. The denouement was too much for him and his sense of humor, and he indulged in a hearty laugh which smoothed his ruffled temper, and before the humor had passed, the missing bag, contents intact, was found.

Lean Live Longer.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

During recent years we have heard a great deal about dieting and other methods to reduce weight. Unfortunately, however, too many persons have approached the subject only from the standpoint of beauty.

As a consequence, we have on one hand men and women who have sacrificed health in ill-advised efforts to achieve a fashionable figure. On the other hand, there are still more who have resigned themselves to being fat. After more or less spasmodic attempts to change, they have decided that the result would not be worth the struggle necessary to attain it.

If appearance were the only consideration, perhaps this would be a sensible decision. But what are the facts?

What are the relative advantages of fatness and leanness? Does health suffer when excess weight is acquired?

I am naturally interested in this health aspect of the question, but, as a matter of fact, the question of beauty depends on it. Without the glow of health, perfection of form amounts to very little.

An interesting statement has recently been issued by the Illinois state department of public health. It begins by saying: "After the age of thirty-five the lean live longer than the fat." It quotes certain figures compiled by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, showing the difference in death rates among the overweight and the underweight.

In heart disease the mortality in the overweight is fifty-one per cent. greater than among people of normal weight, while among the underweight it is nineteen per cent. less. Diseases of the blood vessels, brain hemorrhage, Bright's disease and diabetes, all show as great or even greater, differences between the two classes. In cancer, too, surprising as it may seem, there is a decided difference in favor of the thin.

These figures leave little doubt that heart, kidneys and blood vessels suffer from the strain put upon them by excess weight. Under this burden they are likely to break down prematurely. Without it, longer life and better health may be excepted. With these facts before us, who can doubt that it is worth while to avoid or to overcome overweight?

There is one point, however, that I wish to emphasize. Let me call your attention to the first words of the statement from which I have quoted—the words, "After age thirty-five."

During the period of growth it is not so clear that the advantage is with the thin. The growing body needs an abundance of all the food elements. There is not only tissue to be repaired, but, in youth, new tissue must be formed. There must be reserve supplies to be drawn on in the case of emergency. Serious consequences may follow if the supply of the important food elements is cut down, and on this account any drastic system of dieting is dangerous.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

SALLY. Q—Should the scalp disease seborrhea capitis be treated by a physician? What causes the disturbance?

A—If the condition persists after improving the general health and trying simple home treatment then it should have proper medical attention and treatment. Scalp diseases may be due to a number of conditions—the condition of the health in general has a great bearing on the state of skin and scalp.

• • •

MARY. Q—Is there more than one kind of hives? I do not have welts but the skin seems red and is easily irritated when scratched.

2—What can be done for shingles? Is this due to a nerve condition or to some infection in the system?

A—Yes, there are several different forms: nettlerash is one form and "giant hives" is another. In many instances the trouble may be traced to faulty diet. It often happens that the digestive system is upset.

2—Find the underlying cause first of all. It is usually due to a nervous disorder and it is possible that there is some infection at the source.—Copyright, 1931, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

The Force of Gravitation.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

In physics and astronomy there are a large number of fundamental quantities. "constants" they are called, which require to be determined with the greatest accuracy. Sometimes the task of determining the value of one of these constants is exceedingly difficult and tedious.

For many years A. A. Michelson has been carrying on experiments of ever-increasing accuracy, to determine the velocity of light. It was primarily for his brilliant experimental work in determining the size of the electron that R. A. Millikan was awarded the Nobel prize for physics.

For almost two centuries scientists have been conducting experiments for the purpose of determining the constant of gravitations. From this value we may determine the mass of the earth, for example, and the force with which the earth pulls the moon.

The law, according to Sir Isaac Newton's formulation, is known to every one—any two bodies in the universe attract each other directly as the product of their masses and inversely as the square of the distance apart. If the masses increase for the same distance apart the force of attraction increases; but if the masses remain unchanged the force of attraction decreases.

There is a gravitational constant, called "g," which enters into the calculation; although the units may be chosen as to make the value of "g" unity. The exact gravitational force is obtained in scientific units by multiplying the two masses, dividing by the square of the distance between them, and multiplying the result by "g," the constant of gravitation.

The exact value of this gravitational constant is required for many calculations and determinations. In making large-scale maps, such as in the coast survey, it is not enough to assume that the curvature of the earth's surface is that of a great sphere. On this assumption undesirable errors are introduced.

It is necessary to know the values of the gravitational constant at different points on, and at different heights above, the earth's surface. Another surprising use for the gravity determinations is encountered in prospecting for oil. To obviate expense in drilling to great depths, only to find "dry" wells, physical methods are resorted to for detecting underground deposits as a guide to favorable locations for drilling wells.

One of these methods depends upon the measurement of the force of gravity. The value of the gravitational constant is essential in ballistics, for studying the trajectories or paths of projectiles, and is likewise employed in determining the motions of the stars.

Over a period of seven years Dr. Paul R. Heyl, physicist of the United States bureau of standards, has been conducting experiments to make an accurate determination of the constant of gravitation. For almost two centuries scientists have been working on this task. The first experiment, which was unsatisfactory in its result, was carried out by a Frenchman, Pierre Bouguer, in 1740.

Some twenty-five years later the Rev. Nevil Maskelyne, an English astronomer, made an ingenious experiment with a plumb bob on each side of a mountain, measuring the deviation from the vertical caused by the mountainous mass. Of necessity, the result was only approximate, since it was impossible to determine the exact mass of the mountain.

The method employed by Heyl is based upon that employed by Henry Cavendish in 1797-1798. Cavendish attached two tiny balls to the end of a little rod, balanced at the end of a long, thin wire. As two large masses of metal are brought near, the small balls are pulled toward them and the wire is twisted.

A tiny mirror attached to the wire near the rod turns with it, and moves a spot of light reflected from it to a distant screen. The largest masses used by Heyl were steel cylinders weighing about 150 pounds each.

Although the attraction exerted upon tiny balls weighing about two ounces was about that of the weight of ink in a printed period, this force was measured with an accuracy of a thirtieth of one per cent. The final figure for "g," the constant of gravitation, found by Heyl, was 6.67 over 100,000,000. — Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Jan. 14—Few native New Yorkers know that southernly tip of their island below Fulton street. If they go through the section they are whisked underground. Many Wall and Broad office workers see only the deep canyons in which are located their skyscrapers.

But visiting foreigners are always aghast here. It interests them more than uptown wonders. They want to see the custom house, the harbor dotted with myriad craft, the damply diffusing grandeur of the Statue of Liberty and Ellis island, fluttering with darting gulls.

There is a sentimental attachment for the Battery and its historic wall against which are hurled unceasing waves of immigration. Here their ancestors first stepped on American soil. Too, there is the site of Castle Garden where Jenny Lind's voice was heard.

Save for such visitors, the Battery is rather deserted. The little park is one of the most tranquil spots in the city, but one most ignored. Now and then there are bursts of civic consciousness, expressed in a desire to beautify the toe of Manhattan, but nothing is ever done.

Innumerable New Yorkers have never been inside the Aquarium. They have seen it only from the elevated or motor cars. It is an educational free show yet does not attract as many people as the fifty cent flea circus and freak exhibition on west Forty-Second street.

Some one has described the interior of the Aquarium as "a dazzling submarine ballet. Certainly it is as colorful as a revue spectacle. In each of the deep glass tanks are beautifully-tinted fish gliding about in the enticing undersea swirl of rocks and sinuous sea weeds.

There are the tiny sea-horses bobbing like animated figures on a chess board. Also plate-shaped fish of brilliant hue from Japan, fierce black sturgeons, turbots, seals, sharks and coiling green slimy monsters that seem to be struggling eternally to breathe.

• • •

Many fish suggest in outline celebrities. There is the cat-fish the "spit image" of Barney Gallant and a trout from the Great Lakes uncanny in its likeness of the sad-eyed Theodore Dreiser. Wilton Lackeye, sans moustache, has his double, as have the graceful Pavlowa, Joseph Urban and Bert Lahr. A sleek and satiny seal might be Vincent Lopez. Too, there is a shrewd-eyed fish so oriental looking many sightseers have, upon seeing it, cried the name of a great international banker.

• • •

Under each tank is a sign giving the name of the fish and its characteristics. One learns trout is indifferent to that biological urge called love until November. Then begins flirting outrageously. The female of the lobster makes all the love advances, but not until the torrid month of July. A South Sea Island species actually press mouths together in what appears to be a kiss.

• • •

Paul Morand, distinguished French writer in his first glimpse of the New York skyline declared it reminded him of "some fantasy clipped in cardboard." No one has touched that description.

• • •

Only one New Yorker has seemingly sensed the beauty of the harbor vista enough to have a home directly on its edge. He is Henry L. Doherty, a financier, who built one of the first pent houses on top of a high building on State street with windows looking down upon the sweeping charm of the Battery and the harbor.

• • •

The West street water front, running off the Battery, offers a slice of port life with clots of seamen—Orientals, Levantines, Scandinavians, etc. They mill about wharf doorways, puffing pipes, and apparently fearful of getting out of ear-shot of their vessels.

New York is an important moneyed town where people talk in figures suggesting a barrage of telephone numbers. Those who came here from our $25-a-week jobs are continually bewildered. "Representative Ludlow was the first newspaper correspondent in the history of the country to go directly from the press gallery to a seat in congress."

He had this inscribed as a part of his official biography in the Congressional directory.

But now he has won another distinction which, unless all signs are wrong, Congressman Ludlow will prize more highly than the jump from journalism to politics. In his own words:

"I am the only person in the whole world who has ever been declared a Hoosier by an act of congress."

Ond take it from him he feels "real peart" over the fact, and that he is delighted that congress has found on him the unmistakable Hoosier brand and left it there.

• • •

When Ludlow was elected to the seventy-first congress, former Representative Updike whom he defeated, contested his election on the ground that he was not eligible to run as a Hoosier. Despite the fact that he has been in Washington writing for newspapers many years, it was Ludlow's contention that he kept his Indiana citizenship straight.

"Why," says Ludlow, "out in my home city of Indianapolis I had my pieces in the paper for so long that I think it is not stretching the truth to say that I am something of an institution.

"I don't mean by that that I am a good institution. But then an institution doesn't have to be good to be an institution."

Just before congress adjourned for the Christmas holidays, though he had sat thus far in the seventy-first congress and had been reelected to the seventy-second, the house finally disposed of the election contest and counted Ludlow in.

• • •

It was a great moment for him. And he had to get up and tell his colleagues about it.

"I am pleased that this decision," he said "confirming my right and title to a Hoosier's seat in congress, though somewhat delayed, has come at that idealistic season of the year immortalized by our Hoosier bard, 'When the frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder in the shock'."

• • •

"And I shall always imagine that the members of the elections committee, in discussing this case among themselves, said to each other:

"'You can tell by looking at Ludlow that he is a Hoosier.'

"And in the back of my head there will always be a lingering suspicions that my appearance was exhibit A in winning my case."

Which is conceivably true—Ludlow of the wide-brim black hat, black suit and other accoutrements so long associated with the Hoosier.

Casey Talks For 3 Hours As New Bank Probe Opens

BULLETIN

GALION, Jan. 14—A. E. Evanson, receiver of the Citizens' National bank, today was subpoenaed to appear before the federal grand jury at Cleveland. Others were expected to be subpoenaed. It is believed Evanson will testify in the grand jury's probe of the shortage of funds in the bank.

* * *

By International News Service.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 14—While the federal grand jury today temporarily turned its investigation to other cases, James E. Casey, convicted former president of the Citizens' National bank at Galion, O., awaited to be called again before the body to finish telling his version of the $223,040 30 alleged shortage in the bank's funds.

Investigation into the bank's closing and the subsequent discovery of the huge deficit, believed closed with the conviction of Casey, was reopened suddenly yesterday when Casey was brought before the grand jury to "tell his complete story."

Although it had been predicted Casey probably would be allowed to testify before the jury, it was believed he would not be called until later in the week.

To Be Kept Secret

After testifying three hours, the former banker left the jury room, his testimony unfinished, according to William J. McDermott, assistant U. S. district attorney, who handled the Casey case for the government. When Casey will be recalled to refinish his story has not been decided, McDermott said today. The government probably will keep the announcement of his second appearance in secret, it was indicated.

That additional witnesses will be called to refute or substantiate Casey's story appeared likely, McDermott said, however, that he would call only the witnesses the grand jury members designate in making "a most thorough investigation into every possible angle of the case."

Testimony Not Revealed

The nature of Casey's testimony before the grand jury was not revealed. It was believed, however, that the former bank president attempted to give evidence to support charges he made against four directors of the bank, involving them in the stock market transactions and the false reports.

At his hearing before Judge Samuel H. West he charged through his attorney that the four directors had sanctioned his stock speculations and the false reports to "cover up" the transactions.

The grand jury sessions will continue during the remainder of this week and possibly until the early part of next week, it was said. Indictments will not be announced until the jury is dismissed, according to McDermott.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

This is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel just a healing, soothing, vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.

No griping in the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.—Adv.

CHAPTER 20

A Moment of Horror

H[illegible] day over, Aileen was [illegible] to be alone in the [illegible] of her suite. She was [illegible] remove the mask and see [illegible] before she undressed she [illegible] off the lights—all ex[illegible] shaded lamp which glowed [illegible] side table. Its faint soft[illegible] her mirror a little more [illegible]

[illegible] she put Channing's [illegible] what. From that moment on [illegible] her veil between the [illegible] her fears. Probably they [illegible] less. It was no more [illegible] chivalry that had [illegible] Gluck to express the [illegible] she would unmask for [illegible] unless Gluck could be [illegible] the desire he had [illegible] courtesy might become [illegible] with him.

[illegible] weariness began to [illegible]. She drifted off to [illegible] in her dreams, it [illegible] to her that she was the [illegible] of the prince that Chan[illegible] about. She felt the [illegible] of longing that stirred [illegible]

[illegible] she fancied herself [illegible] strong, possessive [illegible] could only faintly see [illegible] of her ardent lover, [illegible] were drawn to hers [illegible] in his eyes suddenly [illegible] tor. She could feel [illegible] about her throat—chok[illegible] her passion—could [illegible] relentless voice say[illegible] with brutal finality that love [illegible] her.

She awoke with a start and [illegible] up in bed. Trembling, she [illegible] the darkness. Mechan[illegible] fingers touched the [illegible] the table lamp. Aileen put her hands to her throat, looked about her in terror. Of course she was alone in the room, except for her own imagine in the dressing room closet mirror. It leered at her like the face of a fiend—laughter with the ghastly distortion of her poor scarred features. With an agonized scream she caught up the lamp, ripped the cord from its socket and hurled it at this specter.

In the darkness the tinkle of falling glass mocked her, like the echo of another shattered door. Nora Nolan found her in a pitiful heap on the rug.

It was with a sense of shame that Aileen awoke in the morning. While still in the clutch of her horrible dream, she had not fully realized how childish she had been. It had seemed as though she was fighting a bondage that was stifling the insistent cry of her youth.

No matter what fame she might attain, there was one great happiness from which she was barred forever. Never, so long as she might live, would she dare let a man who loved her peep beneath her mask. She fully realized now that she must never love.

Perhaps such knowledge had come too late. From now on she would need to take drastic stens to kill whatever hope of love Aileen knew she had kindled in Jimmy. No one else could share the burden she must bear as best she might. Certainly no man!

As Aileen sipped her coffee something else occurred to her. There must be no suspicion of why that glass was broken.

"I have it!" she said to Nora. "Tell the floor-clerk I was in a rage. Say that when I have such fits I throw everything about. Make me as horrid as you can—and see that the story gets out. I want to be the sort of person no one could possibly--love."

By the time of her first rehearsal with the orchestra and Lezinski, Aileen had almost forgotten herself in the business of getting ready for her bow to the radio public. When the night of her debut arrived her brain was in a whirl.

Intriguing photos and sketches that Channing had made of her looked out from the evening editions with an inviting smile. Literally, millions would tune-in on this newest feature.

Jimmy and Channing called for her shortly after 9. It seemed to Aileen that she floated on air as they taxied through the streets. In the cathedral-like studio everything was ready. Like the chorus of a stage play, the members of the ensemble were grouped about a grand piano.

Colored lights of varied shades lent a note of restful beauty. There was none of the back-stage tawdriness Aileen had always known. She was radiant as she took her place at Lezinski's side.

A stop-watch indicated the approach of Aileen's hour. Faces were tense as Lezinski tapped the director's stand with his baton. Somewhere a warning voice commanded, "Quiet! You're on the air!" The mechanical ears of the 40-odd stations from coast to coast could have heard a pin drop.

Then the first program of La Parfum Masque swung into its stride. In a few more minutes her radio reputation would be made or lost.

Aileen carefully placed herself and stared with some misgiving at the microphone. In the front row of guests she could see Emile Gluck and Channing. Jimmy was not visible, but he was watching her eagerly through the control-room window. Trained to the stage from childhood, Aileen had never until now been nervous before her entrance.

As she began to sing she was supremely conscious of the unseen millions who would soon pass judgment on her. Would her voice go over, she wondered. Would the nation like her?

She was certain that Vivienne would be listening at that moment. And she wanted Viv to like her! That hope drove everything else from her mind. Aileen sang to Viv alone as she launched her opening song with a glorious abandon.

To Be Continued.

WHEN a child is fretful and irritable, seems distressed and uncomfortable, can't play, can't sleep, it is a pretty sure sign that something is wrong. Right here is where Castoria fits into a child's scheme—the very purpose for which it was formulated years ago! A few drops and the condition which caused the trouble is righted; comfort quickly brings restful sleep.

Nothing can take the place of Castoria for children; it's perfectly harmless, yet always effective. For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies, let it be an every-day aid. Its gentle action will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. In more liberal doses it will effectively help to regulate sluggish bowels in an older child.

All druggists have Castoria; it's genuine if you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature and this name-plate:

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Is Assured of the Safety of the Young Folks.

"THEY'RE right here in this chest," Mary said pulling open the door of a hall closet, when she had come with me into the hall, and I gave her a perfunctory audible, "thank you," for Marion's benefit, adding hastily, "And now, if you'll just show me—and drew her hurriedly down the hall toward my room. She has the keenest perceptions of any girl I know, and I was not surprised when I closed the door, to have her say with a serious face:

"What's up, Auntie Madge?"

"I haven't time to tell you now, Mary," I said "but I don't want you to let Marion out of your sight until I give you the word. And I don't want either of you to go outdoors until I let you know. I wasn't as altruistic as I appeared a few minutes ago," I went on, smiling at my husband's winsome niece. "It just happens that-that—"

"That it suits your book to park Mary and me up here for an hour or two.' Mary finished with a wide grin.

"You've expressed it exactly, if not elegantly," I told her, and she threw up her hands as a fencer might at a touch.

The Ruse Effective

"Below the fifth rib," she said "but see if I care. I'll take elegant care of Marion in spite of my dictation. But I'd better be getting back to her, or she'll whiff a mouse or two."

"All right, dear," I said, and feeling the tension of my nerves relax, because Marion and Roderick and my own small son were being adequately guarded from the perils of which the Chinese messenger had referred, I left her at my room door and went downstairs to the veranda for I knew that I could no longer postpone the serving of Katie's trays.

The scene on the veranda was just as I had left it, so peaceful and humdrum, that my colloquy in the kitchen with the Chinese messenger with all its sinister imprecations seemed the figment of a nightmare. My daughter of a month, was still slumbering, and Katherine and Lillian looked at me with eyes that mirrored the question they would not voice.

"I might have known," I said, with an atempt to appear annoyed, "Katie fancied that the tradesmen have been padding accounts and as Marion would say she's 'all hot and bothered about it'."

Both women laughed, with all amusement that Katie's vagaries always afford us, and I was undeservedly rewarded for fibbing when I saw that they apparently had no suspicion of anything behind my words.

"I don't envy the tradesmen at their next delivery," Lillian drawled, "if it weren't for her fantastic way of talking, which keeps them chuckling all the time, I think they'd refuse to come here at all. But I think they really like to hear her bawl them out."

"They know, also," Katherine contributed, "that Katie's bark has her bite so far distanced, the poor thing doesn't even get started. Now, do you think I can trust you with this baby for a time, Madge? If so, I'll run up to my room for a few minutes. As Dicky said, you and Lillian have—"

A Homely Scene

"Slam on the brakes," Lillian admonished, "what's the matter with you anyway? Putting fangs out in your old age? Whenever did Madge and I have anything to discuss that you weren't in on! Unless, of course when we're panning you we'd hate to have you listening in then. But give us credit for a little artistry. We wouldn't heat the gridiron quite so soon. I haven't been home an hour yet."

"You know I didn't mean," Katherine began, laughing, and I took her by the shoulders and put her back in her chair again.

"'It isn't what you said,'" I quoted, 'n'and you may finish the line yourself.' But you're going to stay right here as punishment. As it happens, we'll have no chance for a talk. Here comes Mother Graham and Dicky. I told Katie to tell them when her fruit punch was ready, and I hear Harry coming upstairs with the boys now."

"And here's Hebe herself," Lillian laughed as Katie came smiling through the doors, a tray in her hands, followed by Jim bearing another. Oh! Boy what do I see? Katie don't tell me you've gone and baked my favorite kind of cookies! This is too much! If I don't look out I'll have to go on a reducing diet."

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

THE wind was from the south this morning when I opened up the window, and the eaves of Farrel's house were beginning to drip, when I started to let Jubilee down, and then all at once when he was about half down the snow all slid off of Farrel's roof and almost smothered him. He certainly did jump around and shake the snow off of himself when he got to the ground. I pulled his rope up and shut the window and got my britches and everything on as fast as I could and went down and got the pail and went outside, and when I tried the snow it made dandy snowballs, and I was making them and pegging them at the barn till I had the door almost covered with snow when my father hollered at me to go and milk., and I hiked for the barn so fast I forgot to pick up my pail and had to go back and get it. There is something about a father's voice that makes a fella jump when he is spoken to.

I was picking up the pail and he was standing in the door when a big snowball went over my head and paisted him in the ear, and there was Younias and Feeble and Maggie, and they all had snowballs, and my father laughed and jumped down in the yard and began to throw snowballs at them, and they all rushed him and he fell down and they clumb all over him and just as he was getting up I soaked him with a big one, and he turned and scowled at me and hollered, "I thought I told you to go and milk," and by that time the girls were up on the steps and they each swatted him with one and ran in and slammed the door in his face, and then I got in the barn, but I looked out of the crack of the door and he finely got in the house. He was laughing again. I don't care. I am glad I'm not a girl even if he would laugh when I would soak him one. Nobody gets mad when a girl does anything.

I told Banty if I had to milk Scanlan's cow this morning I would take the quarter, but I didn't have to. Jubilee went all the way to school with us, and on the way a big kid started to throw a snowball at him but I told him not to do it unless he thought he could lick me. He scowled at me and I scowled at him, and he threw the snowball at the fence and we went past him, and then Feeble flung a snowball and hit Jubilee, and I didn't get mad at all. Men are all alike. A girl can do anything and get away with it. Jubilee looked like he was surprised.

When I got home my grandfather had been down to the lake and he said the wind had blowed the ice off shore and the lake was clear for about a mile out. I am going to go down to see it tomorrow. But I'm not going swimming.
